NEWSLETTERS BY EMAIL ONLY

Last month we had Kyle Crosby, founder and proprietor of Louisiana Dread, a company dedicated to showcasing Louisiana's unique heritage. He told folklore stories of the Rougarou, Honey Island swamp monster, the wild girl of Catahoula, and the grunch monster to name a few. Stories like this get the kids interested in our culture. He said he can make a little video of some type of folklore or story about plantations, historical buildings, or Louisiana estates to get people interested. Our plantations homes are full of information that people do not know about and may inspire someone to visit or take a tour of a certain place. He brings Louisiana's past to life with compelling storytelling. He told some enticing stories that make you want to visit a place. We had several plantation owners or representatives from Ardoyne, Residence, Southdown, Ducros, Oak Alley, and E. D. White. Kyle is such a great speaker. Thank you, Kyle, for such a great presentation.
